

CALL FOR PAPERS, POSTERS, AND VENDORS

ARCHAEOLOGICAL SOCIETY OF NEW MEXICO 2018 ANNUAL MEETING

Hosted by the Albuquerque Archaeological Society
May 4, 5 and 6, 2018 at the Nativo Lodge in Albuquerque
Chaco Culture: In and Out of the Canyon

The theme of this year's ASNM conference is "Chaco Culture: In and Out of the Canyon." Chaco Canyon in northwest New Mexico has been the subject of archaeological interest and research since the nineteenth century, and continues to be a topic of fascination for archaeologists, avocational archaeologists, and the general public.

Our conference will kick off Friday evening after a buffet dinner with an introduction entitled "Chaco Legacies: New Research Builds on Deep Foundations" by Chip Wills, professor of Anthropology at UNM. Patty Crown, Leslie Spier Distinguished Professor of Anthropology at UNM, will deliver the Bandelier lecture following the Saturday night banquet. Her talk is entitled "Reexcavating Room 28 at Pueblo Bonito: The House of the Cylinder Jars."

For the program on Saturday morning, we are planning a series of papers dealing with various aspects of Chaco Culture. Papers and posters related to the theme are especially desirable. The afternoon session will be devoted to papers and posters on other archaeological and anthropological topics, with additional Chaco papers possible.
